FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!!!

Big Record of Destruction by the Fire Fiend.

THE MAXEY-REAGAN CONTEST.

Afraid to Live—A French Defeat—Terrible Weather—Nearly a Century—Other Notes.

The Fire Record.

SIMCOOK, N. H., January 11.—The Simcook Opera House and hotel burned here this morning, and a large amount of other valuable property is in danger. Help from Manchester has been asked.

BATAVIA, N. Y., January 11.—Seven large buildings burned here this morning and at one time the entire city appeared threatened with destruction. Insurance small.

MADRID, January 11.—A fire in Alcazar Palace at Toledo, on Sunday resulted in the total destruction of the building. The water appliances were very meagre and the firemen were obliged to allow the fire to take its course and to direct their efforts to prevent the flames from spreading to the town. During the progress of the fire three officers and seventeen men were injured, some of them seriously. No one was killed. The palace was recently restored at a cost of $1,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 11.—Shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the upper story of the handsome house owned by Professor Alexander Graham Bell, in this city, causing a loss of $50,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. The library, containing about 5,000 volumes, principally of a scientific character, was almost totally destroyed.

BURLINGTON, Vt., January 11.—A dynamite factory at Plattsburg, N. Y., was today destroyed by fire and an explosion at 9 o'clock this morning. The shock was felt here, about twenty miles distant. The doors and windows were rattled as if by a heavy earthquake, and many hundred people ran into the streets. Private dispatches state that the fire caught in the engine room, and the workmen left when they were unable to extinguish the flames. No lives were lost. The main factory was destroyed, but the storehouse near by, with a large amount of dynamite in it, escaped.

BERLIN, January 11.—The Stadt theatre at Goettingen, has burned.

CARLEISLE, Ky., January 11.—Fire started this morning in the dentist office of Dr. H. H. Genslinger, and when the walls fell, Dr. Genslinger and Newton Craig were caught in the debris. They were extricated but are fatally injured. Total loss, $50,000.

The Texas Senatorship.

AUSTIN, Texas, January 11.—An informal Reagan caucus was held last night. It is claimed that there were thirty members present, and that ten or twelve who are known to prefer Reagan did not attend. Those who participated claim that Reagan will receive at least forty votes on the first ballot. His more enthusiastic friends say he will lead on the first ballot, but one of his most judicious followers conceded that Maxey would start with a plurality. The Legislature will organize at noon to-day.

Afraid to Live,

CINCINNATI, January 11.—The conjecture has been made that Professor B. Schaff, who took morphine in jail yesterday and died, was the bomb-thrower at the Chicago Haymarket riot. This is based on the fact that his friends in jail were Anarchists and that two of them say he wrote many of the most incendiary articles in the Chicago Anarchist's organ before the riot. It is thought he feared the trial in the police court here would reveal his connection with the riot and result in his arrest for that crime.

A French Defeat.

PARIS, January 11.—Official dispatches from Tonquin report that the French troops made an attack on a large rebel force entrenched at Thanhua, but were twice repulsed. During the fighting four French officers were wounded, five Europeans and eight Tonquin soldiers were killed and fifteen Europeans and twenty-seven Tonquinese were wounded. Reinforcements of artillery and infantry will be sent to the French at Thanhua.

Terrible Weather.

LONDON, January 11.—The State line steamer State of Alabama, captain Gandy, which left Glasgow on December 24th for New York, and which was reported putting back disabled, arrived at Queenstown. She experienced terrible weather when 800 miles westward of Queenstown and lost three blades of her propeller.

Nearly a Century.

EXETER, N. H., January 11.—Dr. William Ferry, the oldest person in Exeter, and the oldest graduate of Harvard College, died this morning, aged 98 years. He was the sole survivor of the passengers on Fulton's first steamboat ride down Hudson River, seventy-nine years ago. He was a member of the class of 1811 in Harvard.

Ogden's Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—The President sent the following nominations to the Senate to-day: Postmasters—at Hollister, California, Haydon Dowdy; Monterey, California, Edward Ingram; East Portland, Oregon, William B. Welch; Ogden City, Utah, John G. Tyler.

San Francisco Shaken.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 11.—The city was rocked from east to west at 4.08 o'clock this morning by an earthquake which lasted seven seconds. No damage.

He Won't Defend.

LONDON, January 11.—No defense will be made by the Marquis of Queensberry in the suit his wife has brought for divorce.

ON HIS TRAVELS.

H. D. J. Looking Over Old Landmarks.

OREGON, Mo., January 7, 1887.

To the Editor of THE HERALD.

I had thought of writing you a few lines ere this, but being somewhat fatigued after the long ride between your city and this place, having slept but little, on my arrival here I felt little like writing, and besides I had quite a desire to cultivate the acquaintance of some children and grandchildren of mine residing here, and as you may suppose, it took considerable time to do this, owing to my long absence from this country.

There is not a great deal to be seen, nor much to be learned, in a rapidly performed trip by rail, at best, and night travel especially is rather barren of interesting items. Yet, notwithstanding, I saw a good deal to interest me on the way. Coming, as I did, from Ogden to Council Bluffs in a new, neat and clear passenger car, one of a train managed by gentlemanly conductors and brakemen, and efficient engineers, I think the reasonable traveler had but little, if any, cause for complaint. On this route the hotels are well kept, the meals served being well cooked and of good quality.

There has not been much change in the appearance of the country between Ogden and Cheyenne, since the completion of the U. P. Railway, excepting the progress of a few of the towns on the route, amongst which I noticed Evanston, Rawlins and Laramie as the most conspicuous. It was a source of some surprise to me to notice the progress made since I last traveled over the Union Pacific Railroad, in Laramie and Cheyenne especially, both of which have grown to be quite large towns. I confess I am unable to account for the growth of the latter place, not being able to see such advantages in its location as to justify so large a city as it seems to be. It may, and probably will, continue to grow after the completion of the railroad in course of construction to the northwest, which is already completed a distance of about 50 miles.

After passing Cheyenne, I was particularly struck with the appearance of the country, especially east of Sidney, Neb. I did not look for the settlement of the Lodge Pole Valley, at least, so early as the present time, and was therefore surprised to see ranches, farms, fields and towns of considerable magnitude on the line of the railroad; and what is most wonderful is the fact, stated and vouched for by men of apparent respectability, that crops of different kinds of grain are produced in that heretofore arid region without irrigation, and in the absence of timely showers of rain.

And right here I beg to suggest to thoughtful people who may feel an interest in the future of our country, the propriety of advancing slowly in the direction of selling or leasing our desert lands to wealthy syndicates. There are no large bodies of good productive land now owned by the government upon which crops can be grown without artificial irrigation; our population is rapidly increasing, and so rapidly that only a few years will elapse, when Uncle Sam will not have time to give, cannot give us all a farm, unless, indeed, such climatic changes shall occur as to make our desert lands suitable for habitation and for cultivation, when should such changes occur, which would be the best, for the United States or for rich corporations to own the vast areas of lands which now some people are so anxious to alienate?

But I will at present pursue the subject no further, and must close. Probably you will hear from me soon from Lincoln, Neb., as I will go to that place in a day or two. In the meantime, Yours truly,

H. D. J.
